

Saltbox

An offline companion for Gather Round families

The problem your customers already have

A Legacy Pass family owns everything Gather Round has ever made. What they do not own is a reliable way to access it without a fast internet connection, a working Shopify session, and the patience to re-download PDFs on a school morning. The purchase is permanent. The access is fragile.

The complaint pattern in homeschool forums is consistent: downloading to multiple devices is tedious, colour PDFs are expensive to print at home, and curriculum that lives inside a browser tab does not survive airplane mode. The gap is not in what Gather Round created — it is in how it reaches the kitchen table.

What Saltbox does

Saltbox is a device-local homeschool day companion. Families import their curriculum once — PDFs, audio, lesson plans — and the app organises it into a daily schedule by child. Everything runs from the device. No re-downloading. No account. No subscription. Works on airplane mode from the first morning they use it.

A QR code on one device transfers the full setup — all children, all curriculum files, all schedules — to a second device in under two minutes. The demo at the URL on this page shows the complete flow, including the Legacy Pass credential check.

The credential architecture (plain English)

Pass holder opens Saltbox — enters the XRPL wallet address where their Legacy Pass was delivered.

Saltbox checks the ledger — one call to a public XRP Ledger endpoint — `account_nfts` — confirms the NFT. No Saltbox server is involved. No personal data leaves the device.

Access is granted instantly — full Founding Family status is stored on the device. Lifetime. No re-check, no renewal.

Gather Round's only action — configure one XRPL minting wallet. Saltbox reads whatever issuer address you set. No code change on your end.

If the partnership ends — the NFT stays on the ledger. Pass holders keep their Saltbox access. No one is left stranded.

One revenue option

Year one: Saltbox is free for all current Legacy Pass holders. Gather Round endorses it as the official offline companion. No payment flows between us.

Year two ask: if Legacy Pass sales grow and Saltbox demonstrably contributed (families citing offline access as a purchase reason), both parties assess a joint licensing arrangement — e.g., a portion of new Legacy Pass revenue funds Saltbox development.

The goal in year one is proof, not revenue. The goal in year two is a model both parties feel is fair.

Why Gather Round specifically

The Legacy Pass is already the right shape — one purchase, lifetime value, a community of families who are committed enough to pay a premium. That is exactly the audience for a tool like Saltbox. The alignment is not contrived. It is already there.

The ask

Twenty minutes — a call or voice memo exchange — to find out whether this solves a problem you have actually heard from your families. You do not need to
