My story

The year was 2011, the same year I had began dating my husband. We were on a hiatus (after a brief few months of dating) when I went down the rabbit hole, so to speak.

I was 25 year old when I finally took the time to ask a few questions about the status quo. I had checked all the necessary boxes:

Graduated University

Travel & Develop Work Experience

Find a Job

What now? I had the time to think for myself for once, so I explored things I had stayed ignorant of such as political corruption and basic economics, which inevitably led me down the rabbit hole of global inner workings and agendas at play.

The Creature of Jekkyl Island, Ron Pauls' popularity and Agenda 21 were ringing in my mind when I swirled into the abyss. There was a distinct moment in which I lost my mind that i will never forget.

I was on You Tube, watching _____, a community developemnt blaha , speak about Agenda 21. She discussed the infiltrations of Universities at the hand of the "sustainability agenda" MORE TO THE STORY

TAKE TWO

Parr is taking action to build strong communities for the foreseeable unstable future we all face. With a degree in community development, a thriving local food business & a decade long journey towards self-sufficiency, Parr helps individuals organize themselves to build resilience.

After a brief description of the problem, Parr dives into solutions for the coming times. Focused on individual responsibility and community mindedness, Above Parr Solutions provides a fresh, grassroots system of lifestyle design that you can confidently build your life around.

Building on foundational principles such as the non-aggression approach, voluntaryism, 8 forms of capital, circle of control, strategies for building your personal directive and freedom cells, APS gives an actionable guide to make the most of your time, resources and relationships.

Inquisitive phrases like “...but why?” create roots and a stable base for ideas to be born. It forces justification and a deeper look, rooting into the problem to enable critical thinking that come to the solutions.
